ADVISERS VOTE TO SEEK STATE OKEH OF PLANS

Government To Help With Expense Under National Emergency Program

INSTRUCTORS ARE SOUGHT

Persons Interested In Work Asked To Consult With Local Officials

Definite steps toward inaugurating classes in the Circleville city schools in the National Defense program courses were taken Thursday night when an advisory committee met in the superintendent's office.

Members of the advisory committee were J. O. Eagleson, Jay Clark, Ben Gordon, J. Wray Henry, C. F. Zaenglein and Frank Fischer.

The advisory committee voted to petition the State Department of Education for an adult class in drafting and a second class in welding, both classes to begin work just as soon as the necessary permission can be secured from the State Department. The Circleville Board of Education has already granted permission for such classes to be held in the school building.

In addition to those class members who live in the city, George D. McDowell, superintendent of the county schools, feels that a number of class enrollees from the country districts may be interested.

The advisory committee is busy in an attempt to secure instructors for these two courses, several having already been interviewed. It is the hope of the committee that these instructors may be local men. The advisory committee hopes to be ready to recommend such instructors to the Circleville Board of Education at its meeting on next Tuesday, February 4.

Backed By Government

These defense program classes are sponsored by the federal government, which has set aside funds for such classes as may be approved. These funds include the cost of the instructors and other personnel, heat, light and similar expenses. Equipment and location for the classes must be furnished by the local Board of Education. Toward this end, the Circleville Board has recently purchased a large new welding machine and additional equipment has also been authorized. This equipment is, of course, also to be used in the regular high school classes.

The adult classes, if authorized, will be held after school hours in the high school building. Each course will be conducted for 30 hours per week. At least 50 percent of the enrollees in the proposed classes in drafting and welding must come from WPA roles, and all other class members must be enrolled with the Federal Government.

POLICE TIGHTEN SEARCH FOR ATTACKER; HAT-PIN COMES INTO USE AGAIN

A series of attacks on women in the city's east end caused police Friday to tighten their lookout for a man who has terrorized women pedestrians on darkened streets for more than a week.

Attacks reported to police now total four, although it is believed there are others which have not been reported.

Police and sheriff's officers Wednesday night checked a number of persons whom they thought might be implicated in the attacks, but released them after no substantial evidence could be obtained.

No victims have been seriously injured by the offender, and all report that the attacker has run away when they screamed.

Many women who find it necessary to walk on the streets at night, have armed themselves with hat-pins, the first time that any use has been found for such things since the gay nineties.

REICH U-BOATS CONFINE ACTION TO WAR DISTRICT

BERLIN, Jan. 31—Chancellor Hitler's declaration in his Sportsplatz speech that escorted and unescorted ships within range of German torpedo tubes will be torpedoed was in effect a proclamation of coming intensification of Germany's warfare at sea, authoritative German quarters said today.

But they declared the intensified U-boat campaign would not be extended beyond the present warzone around England.

They also declared that German submarine operations will be confined to British ships and to convoys en route to England, whatever the nationality of such vessels.

Authoritative quarters conceded that this interpretation of the Fuehrer's speech represents a frank warning against "fool-hardy entrance" of American ships into the blockade zone.

These circles pointed out that many previous warnings have been issued that disaster was "certain to hit" any ship entering the blockade zone. They said inclusion of American ships under Hitler's definition would not change the situation on the high seas.

On the whole, Hitler's address was regarded as confirming the opinion generally held in Germany that the coming spring will witness a "decisive showdown against England" on all fronts.

JOE LOUIS WEIGHS 202, AND RED BURMAN BUT 188

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—With dozens of camera flash bulbs popping around him, Joe Louis today weighed in at 202½ pounds for his 13th defense of the world heavyweight championship tonight against Red Burman, of Baltimore, who balanced the scales at a surprisingly low 188 pounds.

Willkie Scheduled For Tea With King, Queen

LONDON, Jan. 31—Wendell L. Willkie, who is scheduled to have tea with King George VI and Queen Elizabeth this afternoon, spent the morning motoring quietly through the countryside surrounding London.

On Sunday night Willkie will be the guest of Lord Derby at Knowsley in Lancashire and on Monday he will visit the heavily bombed cities of Manchester and Liverpool.

Yesterday the former Republican presidential candidate visited a London "pub" and later discussed British naval affairs with First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander. Last night he dined with Minister of Information Alfred Duff Cooper.

Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal representative in London, toured London's air raid shelters last night.

In one, where the shelterites were about to retire for the night, Hopkins chatted with them for several minutes. He asked whether their berths were comfortable and was assured they were "fine."

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Jan. 31

Prime Minister Winston Churchill today took Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal envoy, on a tour of Southampton's defenses.

Hopkins had an opportunity to gauge public sentiment in this frequently bombed port. Standing on the steps of the civic center with Mrs. Churchill and Hopkins, the prime minister waved a yachting cap at a huge crowd and asked:

"Are we downhearted?"

A thunder "no" echoed through the streets.

Dock-workers enthusiastically greeted Churchill with the now familiar cry of "good old Winnie."

CHIEF OF BUND TO SERVE TIME IN JERSEY JAIL

NEWTON, N. J., Jan. 31 — G. Wilhelm Kunze, fuehrer of the German-American Bund, and eight of his cohorts were sentenced today to heavy fines and prison terms on a charge of violating the state law against speeches inciting religious and racial hatreds.

All received terms of not less than one year or more than 14 months in state's prison at hard labor and were fined $1,000 each. Two defendants, August Klapprott and Mathias Kohler, were fined an additional $1,000.

The bundsmen immediately asked Judge John C. Losey, who pronounced sentence, for a certificate of reasonable doubt which would stay execution of the prison terms and fines pending appeal.

European Bulletins

VICHY, France—Possibility of a new crisis in Franco-German relations was seen today as newspapers in Nazi-occupied Paris renewed their attacks on the regime of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain. The German-controlled newspapers in Paris sought to picture the Vichy government and France as opposed to each other and accused Petain's ministers of "sabotage."

BUDAPEST—Isolated bands of Iron Guard insurgents in Romania are still resisting government troops, according to reports received in Budapest today. One such outbreak occurred when a party of soldiers raided a county prefect's house at Braila, looking for goods stolen by the rebels when the uprising was at its height.

TOKYO—Thailand (Siam) and

French Indo-China signed an armistice agreement this morning, according to information reaching Tokyo, an official spokesman announced today. (Editor's Note: Yesterday the Siamese high command announced that fighting had ceased save for small, isolated border clashes.)

LONDON—The American Eagle

Fighter squadron—all-American unit of the RAF—has completed its final training and now is in active service guarding Britain. It was announced in London today. Composed entirely of American aviators, the squadron is commanded by a Squadron Leader W. E. G. Taylor, 35-year-old Kansas airman.

ATHENS—Repeated Italian attacks on the Albanian battle front were thrown back by Greek forces, the high command announced today following reports that Hellenic troops on the coastal sector are now within striking distance of the Italian-held port of Valona.

MORE ENGINES ORDERED FROM FACTORY IN LIMA

LIMA, Jan. 31—The Lima Locomotive Works today received an order for four freight locomotives costing about $600,000, from the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad. Earlier this week 14 other locomotives were ordered by the Pere Marquette and Chesapeake and Ohio railroads.

FORD PRESENTS LOW BID, LOSES BIG TRUCK JOB

War Department Gives Order For 11,781 Vehicles To Chrysler Firm

ACTION IS "DEPLORED"

Two More Harvester Plants Call Workers' Meeting; Strikes Go On

DETROIT, Jan. 31—Spokesmen for the Ford Motor Co. today "deplored" action of the War Department in Washington in rejecting a Ford low bid on 11,781 army trucks because the company refused to agree to labor policy restrictions.

I. A. Capizzi, Ford attorney, declared that "if future invitations to bid on defense contracts contain the same restrictions we'll certainly make the same objections."

"Insertion of the labor clause," Capizzi continued, "was strictly an arbitrary action, taken at the insistence of labor groups. Labor groups have the ear of certain officials in Washington, whereas the Ford Motor Co. does not. Ford, if he had got the contract, would have had to force his employees to comply rigidly with all labor laws—local, state and federal."

"Thus the contract might have been jeopardized by the acts of any individual workers and we would have had to assign a watchman for every two employees. A violation of any of the laws by anyone in the plant might have been cause for violation of the plant. There is no need for that."

Chrysler Winner

After rejecting the Ford bid, the department awarded the contract to the Fargo Division of Chrysler Corporation on that concern's bid of $10,298,128 — $250,000 higher than the bid submitted by Ford.

In making the award to Fargo, the War Department commented that the "Ford bid was lowest but inasmuch as it was not in accordance with the original proposal, the award was made to the Fargo Co."

JURY TO DECIDE FATE OF BUTLER IN ATTACK CASE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 31 —A jury of six women and six men today received the case of Joseph Spell, Negro chauffeur-butler, charged with assaulting his socially prominent employer, Mrs. John K. Strubing, Jr.

Judge Carl Foster placed the case in the jury's hands immediately following completion of his charge this morning and the jurors retired for their deliberations.

In his own defense Spell took the witness stand to deny the charge of Mrs. Strubing, who also testified as a state witness, that he had assaulted her, forced her to write a ransom note and then threw her into the Kensico reservoir from which she made her way to safety.

Mrs. Strubing's story was that she had been overpowered by her employe on emerging from the bathroom of her home.

BRITISH PUSHING WEST

London Reports Resistance In Libya Stiffening After Derna's Fall

ROME, Jan. 31—Even if forced to abandon all her colonies for the time being, Italy will continue to fight at the side of Germany, the Turin Newspaper Gazzetta Del Popolo said today.

"Italy's attitude will not change even if the fortunes of war impose temporary abandonment of all colonies," the paper said.

(Editor's Note: A British announcement yesterday told of the capture of Derna, the last remaining Fascist base in Libya except Bengazi. A dispatch from "somewhere in Abyssinia" today said a British motorized column was pushing against Italian lines there.)

LONDON, Jan. 31 — Italian resistance in Libya, where British forces yesterday captured Derna, is stiffening, and in Albania the Fascists are making an unsuccessful effort to regain the initiative, a British military authority said today.

This source declared the Italian tactics in Albania apparently have changed and that the Fascists now are counter-attacking in their efforts to take the initiative.

He stated these efforts have not proved successful, however, and that the Greeks still are gaining new territory.

(Editor's Note: The latest Greek war communique said four separate attacks by the Italians were repulsed on one section of

AMERICAN NAVY NOT AFTER SHIP OWNED BY ISLES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Reports that the American navy would acquire the British battleship King George V in exchange for 20 over-age destroyers were branded as "cockeyed" by Secretary of the Navy Knox today.

Other high naval officials, including Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, shared the views of Knox. Nevertheless, some official quarters in Washington think the idea has merit.

"We couldn't operate the British battleship if we did get it," Knox asserted. "Its guns and equipment are different from those on American ships. The idea is cockeyed."

Stark said the reports are a "pipe-dream," while other naval experts explained that it would require a minimum of five months to tool up American ordnance plants to manufacture ammunition and other material to operate the British warship.

$46,500 GAMBLE ESTATE TO BE GIVEN TO RELATIVES

Beneficiaries in the $46,500 estate of the late Rose R. Gamble were announced Friday by Probate Court officials following probate of the will.

They are Frank Wittich, Ella W. Mearns, Fred Wittich, Loring Wittich, all of Circleville; Helen K. Weart, Cherokee, Iowa; Virginia J. Smith, Washington C. H.; Mary J. Fischer, Washington C. H. and Lennie W. Chapman, Plain City.

Letters testamentary in the estate have been issued to the sister, Mrs. Ella W. Mearns. Approximately $11,500 of the estate is real property. The will was dated February 24, 1940 and witnessed by Fred Nicholas and C. A. Leist of Circleville.

EGON L. S. Hanfstaengl, 19, son of Ernest F. Hanfstaengl, pianist who once was one of Adolf Hitler's closest friends, has joined the U. S. army air corps. As he left his studies at Harvard he said, "This is my country." Egon was born in the United States and is an American citizen. His father now is confined in a Canadian internment camp.

NUISANCE RAIDS MADE ON ISLES

Single German Planes Hit At London District; Fires Started

Sees Nazis Move

LONDON, Jan. 31—Flying low, but concealed by clouds and mist, single German raiders kept punning at London and the surrounding areas today, dropping high explosive and incendiary bombs on various localities.

One German raider was shot down while attempting to bomb a village in southwestern England.

Other German planes raided East Anglia and the eastern midlands, dropping bombs that caused considerable property damage, particularly in East Anglia.

Carrying out "nuisance" raids similar to those of Wednesday and Thursday, the raiders caused three air raid alarms in London. During the third the capital's anti-aircraft defenses sent up several terrific barrages.

Most of the planes approaching London came up the Thames Estuary under cover of low-hanging clouds, behind which they remained invisible although the roar of their engines could be heard plainly.

They dropped their loads through the clouds, apparently without aiming at specific targets. Several "basket-loads" of incendiaries fell on purely non-

GEORGE M. VALENTINE, 67, DIES; RITES ARE MONDAY

George M. Valentine, 67, died at his home in Washington Township Thursday evening about 6:50 following a stroke.

A lifelong resident of Pickaway County, Mr. Valentine was born in Washington Township, February 3, 1873, the son of Amos L. Valentine and Catherine Myers Valentine.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nora Valentine; a daughter, Miss Bertha, living at home; a son Francis, Threshbury, New Jersey and a brother Amos M., of Stoutsville. One grandchild also survives.

Mr. Valentine was a member of the Circleville K. of P. lodge, the Washington Grange and the Stoutsville Lutheran Church. Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Evangelical Lutheran Church, Stoutsville, the Rev. George Troutman of Circleville officiating with burial by Defenbaugh in Maple Hill Cemetery, Stoutsville.

NATION MUST BE PREPARED FOR ATTACK BY SEA

Secretary Of Navy Calls For Time To Get Ready For Emergency

LINDBERGH IS ANSWERED

Hitler Waiting For Good Weather To Try Invasion Of Isle Empire

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—In one of the bluntest warnings yet delivered to congress, Secretary of Navy Knox today told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that "we need time to get ready to meet out at sea a strong aggressive Germany if we are to keep the fighting away from the lands of this hemisphere."

In a formal statement, that in some quarters was seen as this government's answer to Chancellor Hitler's threat of U-boat warfare, Knox said:

"The chief question that confronts us is whether we shall now take steps to keep Europe's wars in Europe or shall drift along and permit those wars to be transferred to the Americas."

"We need time to get ready to meet out at sea a strong aggressive Germany if we are to keep the fighting away from the lands of this hemisphere."

"In public speeches I have warned the American people that if Britain is defeated we ought then to be fully prepared to repel attempts by Germany to seize bases on this side of the Atlantic. Germany would use these bases either to attack us directly or else first to establish herself solidly in South America . . .

Sees Nazis Move

"I believe that a victorious Germany would move over to this hemisphere just as soon as she could accumulate the strength to do so, and certainly very soon unless we now take the steps to check her career of reckless aggression."

Knox also gave the administration's reply to another whose views have been contrary to those held by President Roosevelt—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Lindbergh, Knox asserted, is not competent to speak on military strategy and derided his idea of a "negotiated peace" as a "wild

BRICKER NAMES DAYTON MAN AS O. S. U. TRUSTEE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31—Charles F. Kettering, Dayton, today was named by Governor Bricker to the Ohio State University board of trustees to succeed Miss M. Edith Campbell, Cincinnati.

Kettering's term will expire May 13, 1947. He is an internationally known inventor and president of the General Motors Research Corporation.

The governor reappointed H. S. Atkinson, Columbus, as an Ohio State University trustee, for a 7-year term ending May 13, 1948. Atkinson also is a member of the athletic board.

Kettering, who completed a 7-year term as trustee on May 13, 1930, told the governor by telephone that he would be willing to serve again despite the press of business in connection with the national defense program.

MARTINS FERRY MAYOR ORDERS GAMBLING ENDED

MARTINS FERRY, Jan. 31 — Gambling in Martins Ferry was banned "forever" by Mayor Lee Woods today as sledgehammers smashed 15 pinball machines seized in police raids.

The raids apparently came as a result of complaints in city council of lax law enforcement. A special council committee instituted an investigation, after which Mayor Woods ordered the clean-up, which resulted in fines to machine owners and operators. Clubs and lodges were not included in the raids.

President Rests After Birthday Party Is Staged

Morning Press Conference Delayed Until Afternoon; Stars Of Radio, Stage, Screen And Sports Participate In Event

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Plumb tucked out from celebrating his 59th birthday, President Roosevelt today turned over on his side for an extra 40 winks.

Foreseeing that he would be up 'til the wee sma' hours, the chief executive arranged his White House schedule to provide an additional couple of hours of sleep. His usual 10:30 Friday morning press conference was put off until 4 p. m., and there were no morning callers.

Mrs. Roosevelt probably also slept late, going to bed in the early hours, after leading a galaxy of luminaries from radio, stage, screen,

DAYTON A.F.L. STRIKE AT END

Work Resumes On Federal Airfield After Strife Over Non-Union Men

DAYTON, Jan. 31—Work on the $1,500,000 expansion program at the U. S. Army's airfield at Dayton resumed today as between 400 and 500 A. F. of L. building trades workers agreed to end their protest strike to the employment of four CIO members on an electrical project.

The Federal government settled the Wright Field dispute by suspending the controversial project. The A. F. of L. men had been on strike since Wednesday. They promised to return to work today.

The Penner Installation Company, of New York, handling the electrical job, contended it had a closed shop agreement with the CIO. The federal government ordered the project stopped "pending further investigation."

MRS. OWEN LAMB DIES, VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

Mrs. Owen P. Lamb of 71 Preston Road, Bexley, died at 2:35 a. m. Friday at West Palm Beach, Fla., after a two-week illness of pneumonia. She is survived by Mr. Lamb and their daughter, Mrs. Henry Richter (Betty Lamb), of Columbus.

Mrs. Lamb was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Peters of Scioto Township.

She leaves three sisters, Mrs. Alva B. Courtright, and Mrs. Seymour Millar of Ashville, Mrs. Arthur Dunlap of Williamsport and one brother, Homer H. Peters, of Columbus.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

THOMAS R. BARNES, CIVIC LEADER, IS DEAD AT 78

MANSFIELD, Jan. 31—Thomas R. Barnes, Mansfield civic and industrial leader and a widely-known figure in Richland County Republican political circles for the last 25 years, was dead today at the age of 78. He died unexpectedly at his Mansfield home. Founder and president of the Barnes Manufacturing Company, Barnes was on Ohio delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1932, was a former city councilman and a former member of the Richland County election board.

TEMPERATURE MAY CUT SNOW, ICE OFF STREETS

Circleville's weatherman attempted to pour all his January sunshine into the last day of the month, Friday, push temperatures above freezing, and melt remaining snow and ice from city streets and rural highways.

Temperatures began at 28, according to Miss Abbe Mills

Clarke, local weather observer, but climbed into the thirties by noon. High Thursday was 32.

Highway officials report all main highways free from ice, although a little remains on secondary roads throughout the county.

Total rainfall for the month was 2.77 inches, about normal.

Old Age Pension Division To Receive Increase, Bricker Says

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31—Beset on all sides by requests for greatly increased appropriations for state departments, State Finance Director Herbert Defenbacher today checked and rechecked Ohio's 1941-42 budget estimates to be submitted for approval to the 94th General Assembly within two weeks.

With Governor Bricker himself urging increases for four departments totaling nearly $11,000,000, indications were that the proposed biennium budget bill would contain from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 more than the $317,346,750 appropriated by the legislature for 1939-40.

Defenbacher said hearings on various departmental requests would begin next week, and he said he expected to turn over to Bricker estimates for the entire state government in time for presentation to the Assembly by February 15, the date set by the chief executive for his appropriation message.

Some May Be Cut

Despite a net surplus in the state treasury of approximately $3,000,000, and anticipated revenues increase this year and next because of improved business conditions, legislative and administration leaders indicated that a number of departmental budget estimates for the biennium would have to be slashed before the bill finally is passed.

In 1939, the Bricker administration's biennium budget requests totaled $302,032,406, in comparison to the $317,346,510 finally appropriated for that period.

However, the state's financial picture at that time was not as cheerful. There was a deficit in the general revenue fund of $1,002,953. In addition, appropriations made in the 1937-38 biennium, totaling $1,271,368 had to be met, and the school foundation deficit totaled $17,422,856.

During the last two years, the school deficit has been pared to $12,000,000, and the state began the year with a gross surplus in the treasury of $6,000,000.

The latter figure, however, is expected to be reduced to $3,000,000 by various emergency appropriations now pending, including one approved by Bricker for $2,209,210 to reimburse local subdivisions for relief funds spent last year.

To Aid Departments

In his message to the 94th General Assembly, Bricker pointed out that he believed increased appropriations totaling $10,960,000 over the last biennium would be required by the welfare and old age pension departments, state universities and the department of education.

In the last biennium, $69,346,750 was appropriated for the Old Age Pension Division. Bricker recommended an additional $6,500,000 in state funds for this year and next. Matched by a similar amount from the federal government, that would give the division $82,346,750 for this biennium.

The Welfare Department, Bricker said, would need at least $2,250,000 more for the two-year period that it got for 1939-40. Two years ago the department was allowed $38,258,000 by the legislature.

State universities, the governor asserted, would need at least $1,000,000 more for the biennium because of increased enrollment, while another $1,000,000 additional would be required for the department of education.

But the chief executive pointed out that those increases would not be difficult to offset. The $11,000,000, he asserted, would be obtained in the following way:

1—Reduction of $4,000,000 for the biennium in the state's appropriation for relief funds to subdivisions. This could be done, he asserted, because of increasing employment due to the boom in defense industries.

2—Anticipated increases from

Style Revue, Livestock Show To End Farm Week

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31—A style revue and a livestock parade were to conclude the 29th annual Farmers' Week at Ohio State University today.

Louis Bromfield, author, who now lives on his farm, "Malabar," near Mansfield, told farmers on the campus yesterday "that there is no security like the land."

Pointing out that city industrial workers are buying small plots of ground in the country where they can raise their own vegetables, chickens and other produce, Bromfield asserted that "this is one of the healthiest things that is happening to us."

The famous author urged farmers to protect the land by halting floods, soil erosion and the constant lowering of the water table.

"We must restore Ohio," he declared. "It is the farmer's responsibility. You will be storing wealth for the future, and will be putting back what the industrial hogs took away during the rapid expansion."

Others On Program

Walter F. Kirk, state grange master introduced Bromfield. Ted F. Silvey, Ohio CIO secretary; Ralph P. Ward, director of public relations of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce; H. M. Leitnaker, Ohio field man for the agricultural adjustment administration, and Mrs. Harold C. Medley, of Columbus, who played the part of the "typical consumer" also spoke.

Several associations, holding annual meeting in conjunction with Farmers' Week, elected officers. They included:

Ohio Vegetable Growers—

beer, wert, malt and admission taxes, $2,400,000.

3—Savings because of no inherited deficits chargeable to General Revenue Fund, $2,000,000.

4—Net surplus in state treasury, $3,000,000.

Changes Possible

Republican leaders in the GOP-dominated General Assembly indicated they would attempt to carry out the Bricker program "in principle," but they also intimated that some changes would have to be made.

And Democratic leaders in the House and Senate asserted they would battle vigorously on the floor any attempt to carry out such a program at the expense of local subdivisions.

Yes, the biennial "battle of millions" is on again.

AMERICAN POPULATION TO DROP, SAYS CENSUS CHIEF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—The American population will drop about four percent per generation if the present birth and death rate continues, William Lane Austin, census director, announced today.

If the 1930 rates had continued the population would have risen by 11 percent per generation, Lane said. Some time in the 1930-40 decade a change took place in the birth and death rates so that the U. S. passed the critical point at which the population would remain stationary.

GIRL SCOUTS TO PLEDGE AID IN NATIONAL DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Washington Girl Scouts, representing 500,000 scouts throughout the nation, this afternoon will present Mrs. Roosevelt a "promissory note" pledging "any required number of hours of community service in the interest of National Defense."

The Scouts will ask the first lady to deliver the note to the President and tell him about the examples that will be reported of service that Girl Scouts already are performing in hundreds of cities and towns.

WILLKIE NOT AFTER SEAT IN NATIONAL CONGRESS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—Wendell L. Willkie, now in England, is definitely "not interested" in being a candidate for the congressional vacancy resulting from the death of Kenneth F. Simpson, it was announced today by Thomas J. Curran, New York GOP leader.

Curran said he received a prompt declination from Willkie in reply to a cable sent him.

The birds, mostly sparrows, a few pigeons, are faring extra well in the down town section these snowed in days. Besides the Cooper bird and animal sanctuary with feed and care all the time for all comers, the G. A. Hook family is supplying in liberal quantities cracked corn from their back door yard with no lack of patronage, apparently hundreds of the feathered ones being there helping themselves. Yes, we thought about that, too. How other birds and wild life are faring now with the earth snow covered.

In the passing of Henry Stump of the once school district Number Five, Madison Township, we are reminded that he is the last one of the district residing there who attended school in 1871-2 to the now living venerable Jerome Peters approaching his 93rd birthday.

According to Mr. Peters' well preserved school register of that early date, the deceased was then seven years of age. And more: Of the 27 boys whose names appeared on the then school register, seven are yet living. They are: John Curry, McClede Bales, John and Charles Trone, S. M. Smith, Edward Hines and the writer of this item. There is but one family, composed of five members, all living, who was Mr. Peters' pupils at that time. We refer to the Hines family at Mt. Sterling.

The Ashville-Harrison Farmers' Institute will begin Monday morning in the local school auditorium the first session of the five, three the first day, two the second. The state speakers are Mrs. Ruth Arnold Steva and Ralph White, both well seasoned talkers to institute audiences. Know their story and how to tell it. No chance for a nap while they are in action.

Music has been well provided for, the orchestras of both Walnut school and Ashville will take their turns in delivering their musical wares. Fred Hines with his big War Veterans band will have charge of the music numbers Monday evening.

The Madison, Duval and South Bloomfield schools will all appear in turns with chorus numbers.

The officers of the institute are Lewis Hay, president; Hugh Salt, vice-president; Mrs. Samuel Brinker, secretary; Howard Noecker, treasurer; Mrs. George Kuhn, hostess. The ladies of the U. B. Church will serve meals both noon and evening of both the two days. And the big "What Have You Show" for Tuesday evening in charge of Harold Bowers as director of ceremonies, should not be missed by anyone.

School Notes: Glenn Malone, sophomore and third string manager of the basketball team, is at his home suffering with the mumps. All members of the Junior class were present Tuesday for the first time since early fall—an indication perhaps that the flu has "abdicated." . . . Francis Huber, senior, is very busy these days performing his duties as art director of the Annual—preparing his designs for the various pages of the paper. . . . We might say that the art work on this magazine is all "marine"—ships of various types, rope, anchors, etc. to conform with the Senior motto: "Now that we have launched, where shall we anchor?" . . . The book is scheduled to be on sale by May 1.

Orlan Hines of Duval is the editor of the magazine. . . . Book-keeping students are at present working on Practice Set No. 2 and are showing interest in this practical method of recording business transactions. . . . These students are Orlan Hines, Betty Brown, Wilma Smith, Wilma Rhinesmith, Alice Little, Mary Wilkins, Louella Counts and Joan Tosca. . . . There is only one home game on the A.H.S. basketball schedule—Darby comes here on the night of February 7, so if you don't expect to follow the team to the tournament, you had better come to this last game. . . . Three Seniors will play their last home game; namely, Warren Swisher, George Forquer and Bill Cloud. . . . Many followers of the Bronkos will trek to Lancaster Tuesday, February 4 to see their team go into battle with St. Mary's of that city. . . . A.H.S. has a good chance to defeat St. Mary's despite the defeat by Circleville. Most will agree that the Red and Black from the county seat is as tough opposition as the Green and White of St. Mary's but the difference is that we'll be playing this game away from the home court, and therefore, a hard battle is expected. . . . Practice has started for the County Music Festival which will be held here sometime in April. . . . STATE C. OF C. ASKS IMMEDIATE TAX REDUCTION

Chamber Reaffirms Stand Against Diversion Of Gasoline Taxes

OTHER CHANGES URGED

Income Boosted By Many Factors, Including
U. S. Defense

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31—An immediate reduction in state taxes was recommended by the board of directors of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce today after meeting in Columbus.

The board also reaffirmed its opposition to diversion of the gasoline tax to general budgetary purposes; the extension of the liquid fuel tax for more than one year, and the extension of the 65 percent public utilities tax designed for retirement of poor relief bonds beyond the date provided by law.

In a statement, the board said: "The research department of the Ohio Chamber conservatively estimates the total resources available to the general fund for the biennium 1941 and 1942 at $274,834,000 and the obligations and expenditures for the same period at $263,960,000. The upturn of the business cycle for the last three years plus the impetus given to business by the defense program has brought a surprising and unexpected increase in the income of the state."

In order to relieve local government units from a financial "strait-jacket" and allow county commissioners more latitude in making appropriations, the board recommended repeal and amendment of certain mandatory levies and mandatory expenditures with appropriations for various activities being made permissive.

STARS SAY—

For Friday, January 31
THIS NEW YEAR seems a time of culminations in the business, financial, intellectual, artistic, romantic, emotional and social life, with amazing and drastic action, all along the way. A gateway of opportunity swings wide, on hinges of unforeseen change, travel, new associations and interests. But one ominous note sounds—danger from duplicity, fraud, intrigue and other things which might have implications of personal weakness, indulgences or perhaps idiosyncrasies.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is should stand at the threshold of a year of greatly enlarged opportunity with excellent prospects for reaching high goals, probably with a fine flourish or spectacular denouements. It is a time of surprising crises or breathtaking adventure in whatever realm the energies may be directed for expression. That refers to business, finance, adventure, romance, scientific research, as the mental, emotional, artistic, physical and physical energies are stimulated to high degree of performance. However there is an omen of subtlety, craft, fraud, singular snares, as well as self-undoing because of personal indulgences, unready appetites or other acts born of bewilderment at the spectacular turn of events. The promised success crowns only restraint, composure and high personal principle. Romance and popularity loom large.

A child born on this day should have exceptionally active forces and faculties, operating on all departments of its being—mental, emotional, psychic and physical. It may turn these to any avenue of expression with surprising grace, but will need much discipline in suppressing erratic, peculiar and indulgent proclivities. Music, art, poetry of modernistic trend is shown.

HOME OF JUDGE RANSACKED FOR IMPORTANT DATA

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—Allen agents, seeking confidential papers on National Defense matters, ransacked the home of Federal Judge Ben Harrison, former U. S. district attorney, who in that capacity prosecuted espionage cases and amassed much evidence of the activities of foreign operatives, Harrison revealed today.

The Department of Justice, he said, was making an intensive investigation into the invasion of his home a week ago. Of utmost significance, it was said, was the fact that costly jewelry, furs and other valuables were spurned by the looters in their search for confidential documents.

Judge Harrison said that nothing of importance had been stolen, as his confidential files are not kept at home.

PETTENGILL

TO WALTER LIPPMANN

Dear Mr. Lippmann: I note with sincere regret that you believe Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy should be accepted without debate. You say, "For if now we have to argue all over again what we have been arguing for eight months, then we shall make democracy ridiculous."

Do you, then, favor passing the lend-lease bill without crossing a t or dotting an i? Do you think this brainchild of Mr. Morgenthau is the last word in human wisdom? If not, would you change it in any particular? If you would change it, then you would debate its defects with Mr. Morgenthau, would you not? And he with you. If so, would you then exclude the rest of us from the discussion?

Was this bill before the people during the campaign? Was it then suggested by Secretary Stimson that after the election our warships be loaned to Britain? Were the people told that after the election our harbors were to become havens of refuge to disabled warships of nations at war? Were they told that the President intended, after the election, to loan or give billions of dollars worth of American munitions to any country anywhere, which PETTENGILL the American people will have to pay for to help it fight any war with any foe at any time? Were they told that Congress would be expected to abdicate and vest its powers in one man without limit of time or amount so that he might engage in universal economic or military warfare so long as he continues as President?

As an honest member of the "intelligentsia," you must admit we were told of none of these things during these past eight months. We have known of them less than one month. But if they are to be agreed to now without debate, if Senators Hiram Johnson, Bennett Clark, Nye, Wheeler, Van Nuys, Vandenberg, Taft, Reynolds, Shipstead, and Landon, Hoover, Lindbergh, Joe Kennedy, John Lewis, General Robert Wood, Henry Ford, Rickenbacker, and millions of others as loyal to the Stars and Stripes as you—if these men and women are to be pilloried as unpatriotic because they ask to see where America and its free institutions fit into this picture, then it must be that you think the emergency is now so great that deliberation is disloyal and talk traitorous.

If so, in what respect is the situation worse now than before November 5th? At that time the gritty Greeks had not punched Benito Carnera back to the ropes. The British had not scored their sensational successes in Africa. Why are you so scared now? Does Mussolini actually frighten you, Mr. Lippmann?

It is true that the President has now gone far toward the goal you have urged from the beginning. But do you honestly believe the vast issues now before the people were actually debated during the past eight months? If so, who debated them? Don't you think it is asking a good deal of our credulity to say that the issues were decided last fall when Mr. Willkie endorsed practically everything Mr. Roosevelt did or said on foreign policy? Please explain wherein Mr. Willkie presented the opposite side of the question to the judgment of the people.

Or put it another way: Do you think it would have made no difference in the vote if Mr. Roosevelt had presented the lend-lease bill to the electorate before the election, and Taft, Vandenberg, Dewey, Gannett, James or Mc-

RELIEF TO BE TALKED

Township Supervision One
Of Suggestions Made
Of Officials

Pickaway County's township trustees and clerks returned to Columbus, Friday, for the second day's session of the annual convention of the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks. Chief topics of discussion on the Friday program were expected to include poor relief, administration of National Defense and diversion of gas tax.

During the day's business program resolutions urging township rather than county relief administration is expected to be presented. Such a program in Pickaway County would mean that the burden of handling the county's estimated $90,000 relief load would be left to the individual townships. Welfare Director Delos Marcy, following a $30,000 1941 relief appropriation by county commissioners, recently announced that with the anticipated state revenue coming into the county's relief fund, relief in the county could be administered within its 1941 budget. County agencies took over relief administration two years ago.

To Seek More Revenue
Trustees and clerks will also seek a greater share of the auto license tag revenues, the money to be used for road construction purposes. Local trustees and clerks at a meeting in the American Hotel, Monday night, discussed possibilities of township road improvement and additional construction and cited the lack of funds as one of the chief obstacles.

The convention generally opposes the centralization of certain functions of government, although it advocates such a program in National Defense administration.

Registration at Thursday's meeting was more than 1,500, the largest crowd in the history of the association. Attendance Friday was expected to climb even higher.

An amendment to the association's constitution was passed Thursday, extending the terms of its officers to four years. Officers reelected were Joe R. Thomas, Haynesville, president; and Charles P. Baker, Jr., Painesville, secretary-treasurer. Two vice-presidents will be elected Friday.

Among the other features of Friday's program will be a speech by Governor John Bricker and a County officer's banquet in the evening at the Deshler Wallick Hotel. The convention will close Saturday.

J. R. Hoover, Ashville, is president of the Pickaway County Association.

The Individual's Responsibility

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for February 2, is Habakkuk 2:15; Genesis 4:9-12; Mark 9:42-48; I Thess. 5:22; the Golden Text being I Thess. 5:22, "Abstain from every form of evil.")

EACH ONE of us has a responsibility toward the other members of our families, our friends, fellow-workers and others with whom we come in contact, not to tempt them to do wrong. This applies to everyone, young or old, rich or poor. Even a little child not an infant, may tempt another child to do things he knows he should not do.

The subject of today's lesson is "The Individual's Responsibility Regarding Beverage Alcohol," and temperance in this matter is the theme. Many a young man and woman has been ruined by temptation offered them by those whom they considered their friends. "Don't be a flat tire," "Be a sport," and similar phrases, make them feel that they will spoil a party for these friends, and they partake of beverages that make them do things that they would not dream of doing at any other time.

A real friend will not lead a crony into such temptation, but will protect him from them. The prophet Habakkuk said: "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him and maketh him drunken also."

Who Is Real Spoil-Sport?

No one likes to be a spoil-sport at a gay gathering, and too often the other members of such a group make the one who does not drink feel he is one if he does not care to do as they are doing. As a matter of fact, a hard drinker in a crowd is much more likely to be a spoil-sport than a non-drinker, because he is apt to prove annoying. His humor is often foolish instead of funny, his manners grow boorish, he may be belligerent or absurdly sentimental—all traits that may spoil the best party.

The other Old Testament reference in our lesson is from Genesis, the story of Abel's death at the hand of Cain. "The Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not: Am I my brother's keeper?" "And He said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto Me from the ground."

Then the Lord pronounced a curse upon Cain. He was to become a wanderer on the face of the earth; all his labors in the earth should be fruitless, and he should be marked so that every man he met would know him as Cain, the murderer. We have no information as to why Cain's offering to the Lord was not accepted and Abel's was, which caused Cain to be jealous and angry with his brother and led him to murder Abel. But we do know that he made his case worse—much worse—by killing his brother, and still worse when he denied his guilt. The Lord knew he lied, and even if He had not known everything, Cain's guilty face would have told Him. Again the lack of self-control is emphasized in this incident. Cain could not control his temper, so he sinned grievously, and then added to his sin by denying it.

Offending Christ's Little Ones

"And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea," said Jesus.

His disciples had been disputing among themselves, such a selfish, foolish argument on who should be first in the kingdom of heaven. To show them the folly and wickedness of their contention Jesus had taken a little child and set him in their midst, telling them that he who received such a one as this little child received the Master, and Him who sent the Master. And to offend or to do harm to such a one would be surely followed by a great punishment.

Then Jesus goes on to tell them that if their foot offended them they should cut it off; if the hand offended it should be cut off; if the eye was the offender it should be plucked out. It is better, said the Lord, to enter the Kingdom of God lame or blind than to allow one member of our bodies to cause us to be cursed forever. It surely is better to

TO THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

DIRECTORS: "New blood" is good for any organization, and yours is no exception. To see five of your 1941 directors new is a consolation that the coming year will see some new ideas attempted. Already you are working on a number of programs which will definitely promote a better community spirit. Your Corn and Soybean show, your program to secure additional industries for Circleville, your land purchase in the north end of the city, and your encouragement of 4-H Club groups will be watched with interest by the whole community during the coming year. Your annual report, read at your meeting Tuesday night, contained accounts of several successful enterprises carried out by your organization last year. May your 1941 report be even better.

TO PARENTS

FATHERS AND MOTHERS: Before members of the Rotary Club Thursday noon, Judge Meeker Terwilliger pointed to the lack of parental guidance as one of the major causes of crime among our young folk. A majority of the petty crimes committed in the city during the last month has been done by boys in their teens. "Teen-age" boys are a constant worry to the local police department, and one of the most frequent complaints from local law officers is that parents "don't keep their kids at home." Schools have been unjustly blamed in the past for a condition which does not originate in the schools at all, but in the home. That is where all education should begin.

CIRCUITEER.

TO TOM GILLILAND

SIR: Persons interested in the Pickaway Country Club were pleased this week to learn that you had been elected president of the organization to serve during the next year. You have been interested in the Country Club since its organization some 12 or 13 years ago, and there is no one in the city more capable of administering the affairs of the club than yourself. I hope that you receive full cooperation from all your fellow officers and directors and all stockholders and associate members of the Country Club. In order to

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles P. Stewart

SENATOR CARTER GLASS of Virginia is the only consequential individual I know of in Washington who unqualifiedly wants Uncle Sam to send his naval forces across the Atlantic to "shoot the devil out of the Germans," as he expresses it. I've my suspicions that even Senator Glass rather overdid himself when he said that. The old octogenarian has a terrific temper and frequently blows up with alarming violence in some fit of rage, after which he often cools off and modifies himself considerably. Nevertheless, "shooting the devil out of the Germans" was what he recommended, and he hasn't taken it back yet. And, as previously remarked, nobody else has gone quite that far to date.

However, one overhears not a few Capitol Hill spokesmen who suggest informally that, if we do dispatch American war craft to Europe's belligerent waters, we'll do well to do it with American fighters on board, to navigate them, man their guns and fire them off, instead of turning them over to the British to operate.

The latter policy is the one urged by our aid short of war" advocates. Their theory is that the first don't need man power, but we do need ships, planes and supplies.

BRITISH INFERIOR?
Critics of the plan to loan them to John Bull argue, in opposition to this scheme, that the Britons aren't as capable scrappers as we are. They don't question the islanders' bravery, but insist that they haven't our skill. If they get our boats, to handle by themselves, according to such reasoning, the Germans will sink them shortly, due to British bungling, we'll have lost the vessels forever, and they won't have done much good.

It's a thesis which doesn't arrive at a conclusion materially different from that of Senator Glass.

All hands except the strict isolationists are 100 percent in favor of providing Britain with the boats, but if Britain can't manage them effectively without our crews, what's the use?

Conditions at the beginning of our participation in the last World War are recalled.

When our A.E.F. landed in Europe the Allies wanted to incorporate it into their own military outfit. General Pershing promptly refused to merge ours into theirs. He insisted on maintaining it independently. Our experts of today contend that that was why it was so effective.

We're reminded that the Allies had been by no means able to squelch the Germans at sea. The Jutland battle is mentioned as having been far from the British victory was advertised as being. It was, it's related now, Admiral Simms who Americanly mined the North Sea. It was the Kaiser's finish afloat.

ISOLATIONISTS LIKE IT

Our isolationists semi-like the sort of talk thus outlined. It tends to bear out their argument that the lease-loan program inevitably will lead us physically into war—or else it will prove a fizzle; the supposedly incompetent British will be licked anyway minus our bluejackets, and whatever we loan to 'em will be permanently gone up the spout to the subsequent grave disadvantage of our own defensive equipment. Oh yes, the isolationists are solidly for defensive preparation, but for heaven's sake, they warn, don't give any of it away.

It's talk that the "all out aid to Britain (short of war)" bunch emphatically doesn't like. It implies that "aid short of war" isn't worth shucks—in fact, that it's a dead loss to all concerned.

The isolationists are more or less split. So are the short of warriors.

Then there's the middle group, which doesn't want American war participation, which does want "aid short of war" in order to keep us out of it, but which does suspect that we'll get into it whichever policy we adopt.

Senator Glass' recommendation has put all three of 'em on the spot.

DIET AND HEALTH

"Attack of Nerves"

The Hypothalamus May Be to Blame

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● We are accustomed to say of a person who has had an attack of indigestion, or who is complaining of insomnia and the jitters, that it is "an attack of nerves." We didn't know exactly what nerves were involved but it may be, as I pointed out yesterday, that if recent discoveries are correct, the hypothalamus, a small ganglion at the base of the brain, is the place where these "nerves" that cause such attacks, center.

"One of the hardest jobs I have to do several times a day," said the medical consultant of a large clinic, "is to convince a patient with functional troubles that all the symptoms are due to nervous interference with the functions of a normal heart or a normal digestive system. Some of these persons will, of course, have noted that their troubles followed a nervous shock, or a period of overwork, anxiety or sorrow, and for them it will be easy to accept my diagnosis; but others who have broken down, without obvious cause, are hard to convince. If to these people I do not give plausible explanations of their symptoms, they will only move on to consult another physician."

Hypothalamus May Be Cause

"Often also, when talking to the physician who referred a patient, I find it hard to get him to see how unlikely it is that the symptoms complained of could all be due to the dropped stomach, colitis, low blood pressure, etc., that he found."

Perhaps, as I say, the hypothalamus is the cause. Professor Cannon at Harvard has been studying what he calls homeostasis, or the way all the fluids of the body are kept stable within narrow limits and the way the automatic functions of the body are carried on. You give no thought to the matter, but your blood has always a certain viscosity and it is the same as the viscosity of your neighbor's blood, or the blood of an East Indian who eats an entirely different diet. Is there a special nervous center that controls all these things? That is one of the great puzzles physiologists are working on today.

Disturbance Causes Symptoms

If it is true that this nerve center is disturbed in such patients and the disturbance causes the symptoms, it ought to do away with the resentment these people feel when they are told their condition is due to nerves. This is an age-old problem with them—they hate to be told that. They feel in some way that a dropped stomach is not their fault and are willing to believe their symptoms are caused by such a condition, but to have it said that their symptoms are due to emotional instability, is resented. If it can be proved their trouble is located in a certain part of the brain, this feeling of guilt might go away.

This small area of the brain may be said to be the seat of the mind of the animal functions. It can go just as wrong as the intellectual mind. For instance, it certainly presides over sleep. Sleep is merely lowered activity of the hypothalamus, not a successive turning off of the higher centers, or an inhibition of one part of the brain by another. So that a brain surgeon at the symposium last year made the astonishing statement that an animal with the thinking part of the brain removed or diseased could be awake and conscious.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D. H. J.:—"Would you have an article on goiter in your column? It is a leading ailment in this section and I believe we should know more about its prevention and treatment. Should a simple goiter which has come on suddenly be removed even though it is not bothering at the present time? Does work requiring considerable lifting and bending make the goiter worse? Is there any way to prevent them and can they be cured when they first develop? Do enlarged neck glands always mean goiter?"

Answer — There are a great many different kinds of goiter and anything which I say on the subject in general should be checked against the opinion of a physician who has the opportunity to see the patient personally. The kind of goiter that develops in a region is due to lack of iodine in the soil, in water, and in the vegetables that are grown in the soil. They are easily preventable with a small amount of iodine given twice a year, in the spring and in the fall. Five or ten milligrams of iodine twice a week, for two or three weeks in the spring and fall, is sufficient to prevent development of this type of goiter in school children. The question of how much work a patient with goiter should do would have to be determined by experience. There is no direct reason why work will hurt the goiter. To answer your last question: there are a great many enlargements in the neck that are not due to goiter.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

One hundred and twenty-five county residents who had been members of the Farm Bureau for 15 consecutive years were presented pins at the closing session of the sixteenth annual meeting in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Reports from the two local headquarters indicated that approximately 200 veterans had filed their applications for payment of the bonus.

Mrs. Frank J. Bennett of South Court Street announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ellen Jones Bennett, to Mr. Albert E. M. Louer of Chicago, Ill. No date was announced for the wedding.

10 YEARS AGO

J. W. Alaniva, Chillicothe, was temporarily employed in the office of County Surveyor J. Howard Sweetman as deputy engineer. He was to draw plans and do other trace work.

The general store at Five Points, owned and operated by Mrs. M. C. Zimmerman and her son, Ernest, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin.

Twelve friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crist, North Court Street, for a delightful dinner honoring Mrs. Crist on her birthday anniversary.

25 YEARS AGO

Eighteen dentists of the district attended the banquet of the Reinhinkle Dental Society at the Boggs Hotel.

Mrs. Clara Bradley entertained a group of her pupils at a dance in Memorial Hall with a second dance scheduled for three weeks later.

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

JABEZ HEARD my step on the stairs and, straightening, presented a troubled face to me.

"What's the matter, Jabez?" I asked. I felt very sorry for the old houseman; he had grown so feeble since Mark's death. Captain Essex, when told of his grandson's death—it had been found impossible to keep it from him—had slipped into a coma, and watching Jabez, growing feebler day by day, I feared the deaths of the two old men would be as close as their lives had been.

"It's another one of those letters, Miss." His voice trembled as he spoke.

"What letters?" I asked, coming to his side.

"That's the way I found the other one." It was a thin whisper which barely reached my ear.

I looked from his face to the letter and back again. I couldn't make head or tail out of what he was trying to say, so bent over and picked up the envelope. When I turned it over, I nearly dropped it.

"Carey Essex?" That was all that was on it, but the letters forming the name were not written. Instead, they were cut from print and neatly pasted together. I knew then what Jabez meant! This was another letter like the anonymous one Carey had received earlier.

"Get Mr. Essex," I ordered.

Jabez turned toward the stairs, but stopped at his second step. Carey, Captain Lancy, had just come into sight at the head of the long flight. With Jabez at my side, I started toward them.

"Good morning. Is anything the matter?" Carey's voice, as ever, sent tiny thrills coursing through my veins. He quickened his step; I stopped at the foot of the stairs, held out the letter and said:

"This!"

The letter was addressed side to side. He glanced at it and stopped as though struck into immobility.

"Curse them," he muttered.

"Lancy, here's another one."

He tore the envelope open, drew out and unfolded the single sheet it contained. The detective stood at his side, and I, on tiptoe, craned to see over his shoulder.

"If you want to see your cousin alive, give the papers to Althea."

I stared at the cut-out words, trying to read meaning into them. The men were far quicker than I.

"Kidnaped!" Carey's voice thrilled with horror. He crumpled the letter in his hand.

"Don't do that," Captain Lancy spoke sharply. "Give it to me."

He held out his hand, Carey laid the letter in it, and on the run the detective sped down the hall. He rushed into the telephone booth, we followed, breathlessly waiting for what he would do.

He hadn't closed the booth door; we watched as he lifted the receiver and waited, signaled, at first slowly, then, impatiently. He rang the receiver back on the hook.

"The line is dead! If only Scott were here!" snapped Lancy. "I'm going for your chauffeur." He was already at the hall closet, shrugging into his raincoat.

"The cable's probably gone," Carey said. "It usually does go in a storm like this. You stay here, I'll go." They exchanged a glance I could not read. Captain Lancy took off the raincoat, Carey put it on and was out the door before I brought my thoughts into working order.

"Does it mean Kaye has been kidnaped?" I gasped.

"Yes. And with the telephone gone, I don't dare leave you folks here alone." The detective's words were a snarl of angry frustration. I began to get my senses back. It was a terrible muddle; I had been so sure that Kaye and Dave had run away together.

"Come and have some coffee while you're waiting," I suggested. "You may not have another chance."

My voice seemed to pierce through his anger to some thought lying back of the cold, hard eyes. He stepped forward and, with cool, steady fingers, lifted my chin until he could look into my eyes.

"Were you giving us a run-around last night, or did you really believe Kaye Gould had run away to be married?"

His question terrified me. That grip, firm but gentle, held my head immovable.

"Of course I believed it," I stammered. "She told me that was what she would do. She's been meeting him every day on the way to the fishing village. I really thought she'd done it."

How long those gimlet-like eyes of his drilled into me I have no way of knowing. To me it seemed hours. Then, his hand dropped from my chin, fell with friendly pressure on my shoulder.

"Sorry, if I frightened you," he said, "but I had to be sure. Ah," as Carey and the chauffeur were fairly hurled by the wind into the hall, "here they are!"

No one told me to go away, so I stood and listened to the orders he gave Robert. He was to go to Wetuxet, straight to Chief Crane's office. A dozen men were to be sent to Purple Beeches. Chief Crane was to send the news to the neighboring cities and towns and institute a search. Captain Lancy would wait at Purple Beeches until the men came; he dared not leave us without ample protection, he said, in a tone which made my toes curl up.

"Whoever's at the bottom of this," he said, "you won't find her in Dave Otis' car. That's where we made a mistake yesterday. We were looking for a car with a man and a woman in it, he'll be alone unless—he's the kidnaper."

And at that descent from tragedy to absurdity, I had hard work to restrain my laughter. Dave Otis kidnap Kaye! Captain Lancy didn't know either of them as well as I did! All Dave would have had to do was hold out his hand and say "Come," and Kaye would have

"comed." He wouldn't have to stoop to kidnapping.

Robert was out the door, with Captain Lancy's last word. Watching from the window, we saw him climb into the big Packard and drive off until the first curve hid him from sight. The car, heavy as it was, away dangerously in the high wind.

"I hope he makes it," muttered Carey. "I should have gone with him."

"Your place is here," snapped the detective.

"You're right; I know that," Carey agreed, "but it's hard to wait while another man's doing the work."

"There'll be work enough for you later," Captain Lancy could not know how accurately his prophecy would come true.

And then those two men surprised me. They went into the dining room and ate as though they were famished. I had hard work to choke down coffee and toast, but their menu included puddings, lamb kidneys and eggs. I decided right then that while women allow their emotions to rule their appetites, men have better sense.

"What are you going to tell Mrs. Gould and Janet?" I ventured.

"The detective's face hardened. "Nothing now," he snapped. "We'll plan our campaign and tell them later."

After breakfast, Carey and the detective went to the library. I was dying to follow them, but I didn't dare. They knew where I was, if they wanted me they would send for me, and, great as was my curiosity, it couldn't over come my fear of being thrown out on my ear.

I was sitting by the living room a few minutes before 12 when I heard their voices. I rose and went into the hall. Captain Lancy was putting on his raincoat. Carey, with grimly frowning face, was by his side.

"Have you heard anything?" I ventured, but neither one noticed me.

"I'll be back as soon as I can. Carey said. The big door opened, and the detective was gone.

I ran to Carey's side and helped him close the door. It took all the strength we had to do so against the wind. I looked at Carey; I didn't have to ask a question.

"Lancy thinks Robert is either in with the gang who've got Kaye or has had an accident. He's walking to the village, doing a man's work while I'm tied by the heels here. We can't and a break in the telephone wire, so it must be the cable gone, as I thought. We've looked all the doors and windows and collected a regular arsenal back here."

He led the way to the small room at the end of the hall. On the table were two rifles and five revolvers. We were still looking at them when the front door bell rang. Carey thrust a gun into his pocket; I ran ahead of him into the hall and peered out the window. Johnny Wing was waiting to be admitted.

125 Couples Take Part In Circleville's Ball

F. D.'s Birthday Observed By Group

One hundred and twenty-five couples gathered in Memorial Hall auditorium Thursday for the Pickaway County celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday anniversary, enjoying an evening of dancing and cards to help others walk. Proceeds from this and similar celebrations all over the United States will be used to combat infantile paralysis.

A large portrait of the President centered the decorations of the stage which was appropriately decorated for the occasion with United States flags and red, white and blue bunting.

Swing music, both sweet and hot, was furnished by Clarence Olden and his 11 piece band of Columbus for the dancing from 9 until 1. The band played many request numbers during the evening and several vocalists of the organization entertained at intervals.

During the intermission, Byron Eby, general chairman of the dance, presented a beautiful wedding cake to Miss Dorothy Beatty and Mr. Lloyd Wardell, surprising them with the gift as well as surprising the guests with the announcement of the coming marriage.

Twelve tables of players enjoyed the card party in charge of Mrs. Orion King and her committee.

Prizes for scores in the games of contract bridge were won by Mrs. George E. Gerhardt, Mrs. Paul McGinnis, Mrs. Tom Burke, Mrs. Winifred Wallace, Mrs. Allen Thornton, Mrs. Lawrence Goeller, Mrs. George Crites, Mrs. Donald Mason, Mrs. N. T. Weldon, Franklin Crites, Donald Mason, Tom Gilliland, Stewart Walling, Tom Burke, N. T. Weldon, Adrian Yates, Paul Adkins and George Crites.

The eucire prizes went to Mrs. Bern Shidaker, Mrs. John W. Howard, Joe Giff and Dwight Williams.

Many out-of-town guests were present for the celebration, a few noted including Stewart Walling of Portsmouth; Mrs. Paul McGinnis, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Williams of Adelphi; Mr. and Mrs. Hansel Butler of Waverly; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Russell, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Swaney and Miss Agnes Kessler of Lancaster.

Ladies Aid at Leist Home
Mrs. Arthur Leist of Washington Township entertained members of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Evangelical Church of that community Thursday. The devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Loring Leist, president.

After group singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers," Miss Nellie Bolender read a "History of the Society." Readings by Mrs. Viola Glick and Mrs. D. A. Bowman and contests in charge of Mrs. D. A. Marshall and Mrs. Bowman completed the entertainment.

Refreshments were served to 21 members and visitors.

The program committee for the affair included Miss Bolender, Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. Glick and Mrs. Marshall.

The February session will be at the home of Mrs. G. M. Wertman.

Sub-Debs

Miss Mary Alice Harrison, East Franklin Street, was hostess to members of the Sub-Debs when the group met Wednesday after a long interval.

Pins were chosen and future activities planned.

After the business meeting, refreshments were served.

Eleven members gathered for the session, at which two new members, Miss Annette Donohoe and Miss Virginia Palm, were received.

The next meeting, February 12, will be at the home of Miss Donohoe.

MRS. SHULZE IS HOSTESS AT BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Complimenting Mrs. J. E. Groom of Park Place, Mrs. Charles G. Shulze of 316 South Court Street entertained at a dinner Thursday at 7 p. m. arranged as a surprise in honor of her birthday anniversary.

Flowers made a spring-like setting for the delightful affair, a large bowl of yellow daffodils highlighting the reception hall while vases filled with narcissi, deep red roses and tall spikes of rose gladioli graced the long living room.

A large silver bowl filled with beautiful yellow rose buds flanked with burning candles in triple crystal holders formed the lovely center arrangement of the table. The crystal and silver of the table appointments were exquisitely reflected in the mirror table top.

When the dessert course was served, a large birthday cake topped with burning candles was placed before Mrs. Groom, the cake being on a revolving musical base which tinkled out the tune, "Happy Birthday."

Contract bridge was played during the evening at tables placed before the cheerful open fire in the living room.

The guests in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Groom were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Eshelman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Musser, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grant, Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Dr. D. V. Courtwright of Circleville and Herbert Eshelman of Lancaster, Pa.

Williamsport P-T. A.

One hundred and forty-five members and visitors attended the meeting of the Williamsport Parent-Teacher Association Thursday in the school auditorium, when the High School Band members appeared for the first time in their new military style uniforms. The uniforms, which were provided by the P-T. A., are navy blue trimmed in gold braid.

The Rev. F. G. Strickland, president, was in the chair for the business session, and received the report of Mrs. Russell Wardell, chairman for the Farmers' Institute dinner, that the committee had realized $35 profit from the affair. Clark Smith and Wendell Boyer, co-chairmen of the band uniform committee, reported the completion of the purchase and Mrs. Herschel Hill of Northridge Road was hostess to members of Circle 5 of the Woman's Society for Christian Service of the Methodist Church. Mrs. William Gray and Mrs. Sam Rife assisted in entertaining.

Miss Leatha Beaver conducted the devotional hour. Plans were made for the February activities of the Circle during the business session, which was in charge of Mrs. Frank Bowling, chairman. The group will serve the lunch at the W.S.C.S. meeting Thursday, February 6, at the church and will sponsor a dinner and bazaar February 26.

James and Joan Hill entertained with several piano numbers during the informal tea at the close of the meeting.

A tea is planned for the next session, when Miss Beaver will be hostess at the church.

Pickaway P-T. A.

Seventy members of the Pickaway Parent-Teacher Association who were present at the regular meeting Thursday in the school auditorium were given information by members of the township school board and George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway County Schools, concerning the financing of the school program.

Mr. McDowell explained the foundation program; Neil Morris, vice president of the board, told of other sources of income; Mrs. B. W. Young, president, spoke of problems to be met in financing; Frank Sharpe told of the cost per pupil and Leo McKenzie read some interesting facts from the annual report of the board.

During the business meeting in charge of Mrs. G. D. Bradley, president, the report of the ways and means committee was accepted, the organization again sponsoring hot lunches for underprivileged children of the school. After discussion of the committee report, the association was divided in four groups, each then making suggestions for future programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shell entertained the group with several musical numbers at the close of the business meeting.

Mrs. Harrison Wolfe and her committee served refreshments during the social hour.

Maple Cake Frosting
2 cps. maple syrup
2 egg whites
Boil syrup to 248 degrees F. or to the long thread stage. Beat egg whites until stiff, add syrup slowly, beating continually. Continue to beat until frosting is cold and thick enough to hold its shape. Add baking powder during the last part of the beating. This makes sufficient for a 3-layer cake. Half the amount would frost a loaf cake.

Boil syrup to 248 degrees F. or to the long thread stage. Beat egg whites until stiff, add syrup slowly, beating continually. Continue to beat until frosting is cold and thick enough to hold its shape. Add baking powder during the last part of the beating. This makes sufficient for a 3-layer cake. Half the amount would frost a loaf cake.

Deercreek Faces Test In Contest At New Holland

With only two weeks remaining before the Pickaway County cage tournament gets under way, high school court teams are seeking to make each contest count in an effort to reach the top rung of the heated competition.

Four teams, Ashville, Deercreek, Pickaway and Monroe, boast of only one defeat in county competition, and each is striving hard to keep that record intact. The only leader to put its chances at stake this week will be Deercreek, bound for New Holland and a tough contest with the Bulldogs there. New Holland, after defeating the strong Kingston team last week, dropped a verdict to Scioto Township in an upset Tuesday evening and may be counted on to rebound.

Monroe, playing on its own court, should have little trouble with Walnut, and Ashville should erase Perry, the game being scheduled on the Atlanta court, scene of the tournament starting February 20. Pickaway, other leader, is not scheduled in the county.

Darby travels to Saltcreek, and Washington completes the schedule by going to Jackson Township.

Circleville will swing into action again Friday, trying to gain its first South Central Ohio League victory in a contest at Wilmington. The Tigers tired two weeks ago in the last quarter and saw Wilmington walk away with a well-earned victory. A victory would also put the Tiger youngsters within a single game of an even split on the season, five having been won and seven lost to date. The reserves are scheduled, too, the squad planning to leave by bus about 4:30 p. m.

ODDS DECLARE CHAMP TO TAKE DEMPSEY'S MAN

Joe Louis To Have Little Trouble In Garden Go Against Red Burman

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 — Joe Louis, 203 pounds of dynamite and possibly the greatest fighter that ever lived, meets another of those strange characters they keep dragging out for him when tonight he goes against Red Burman in defense of the world heavyweight championship. It is almost a travesty on all that is rational to say that Burman is a challenger. His record and the odds of 10 to 1 on Louis seem to eliminate all chance of earnest competition.

Nevertheless, the morbid bystanders will turn out to the extent of about 16,000 to see the show and will pay around $65,000 for the privilege. Actually they will be paying to see Louis uncork some punches, and will be asking meantime who's Burman?

By way of introducing Burman, we may say that he is another of the long list of two-hy-fours currently in the heavyweight picture. Neither good nor particularly bad, he finds himself in there now with the greatest fighter of these times and the inevitable seems to be inevitable, or words to that effect.

In case you think miracles can happen at the beck and call go ahead and pick Burman to win the championship. The odds are 4 to 1 that he won't even stay the limit.

Dempsey To Be Chauffeur

The challenger came to town late yesterday and enjoyed a movie before going into seclusion to await today's weigh-in, and was promised a ride through Broadway with Jack Dempsey at the wheel of the car in the event of victory. That was Dempsey's naive way of offering reciprocity for Burman's long tenure in the role of Dempsey's chauffeur.

Louis was being built up as a vengeful killer as fight time drew near, but none could say how much of this was fact and how much the fancy of Promoter Mike Jacobs' publicity staff seeking some valid excuse for the 15-round encounter between two men seemingly so unevenly matched that there was no sense to it.

Anyhow, the story went that Louis was sore because of the cracks Dempsey had been making about the champion's inability to take it. So Burman was to get in there and fight for Dempsey's honor and all that sort of thing.

Personally, I don't think Burman can fight much and I'm convinced he can't go more than a few rounds if he will get in there and mix it up. If he simply tries to stay the limit as some others have done, then it will be a farce, with all hands looking pretty bad.

But that's the way things are going now — everybody is simply trying to stay, never mind winning.

Thirteenth Defense

Aside from all that, this will be Louis' 13th title defense. In the 12 others he has scored 10 knockouts and in his professional career he has compiled the greatest knockout record of any heavyweight champion.

Why go further when, actually, there isn't even any excuse for the fight, except that Louis wants to knock somebody out once a month.

DYKES SENDS HIS FAT MEN INTO REDUCING TRAINING

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—A trio of 200-pound baseball players headed for Hot Springs, Ark., today to establish the Chicago White Sox' own "Fat Man's Club" at the resort.

The three hefty men were Pitcher Ed Smith (212 pounds), Outfielder Moose Salters (217) and Outfielder Taft Wright (200-plus). Salters and Smith left for the resort from Chicago, and Wright was to make the trip direct from his home. All three, under the watchful eye of Coach Mule Haas, hope to diet and train themselves down some 10 or 15 pounds by February 20. On February 22 they are scheduled to reach the White Sox spring training camp in Pasadena, Cal.

TROOPS FROM OHIO TO TAKE PART IN GIGANTIC ARMY MANEUVER

MOCK INVASION BATTLE HINTED FOR JUNE, JULY

All Circleville Men Now In Guard And Being Drafted Will See Service

BEIGHTLER HAS CHARGE

DeSoto National Forest May Be Scene Of Program Planned By Army

Soldiers of Circleville and Pickaway County who are members of units in the 37th Division, which includes only Ohio troops, have been informed that they will participate in immense army maneuvers scheduled for June and July, probably in the DeSoto National Forest in Mississippi. Approximately 350,000 soldiers will participate, including the 37th Division and the 38th Division, which includes troops from West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky.

Army circles at Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss., where the troops are undergoing a year's training, said that the maneuvers might include a mock invasion battle.

All of Circleville's guardsmen are included in the 37th Division, and practically all of the Circleville and Pickaway County draftees, who are now moving at a faster pace into army circles, will participate in the maneuvers.

The sites for the maneuvers, the date of which were announced by Major General R. S. Beightler, sr., commanding general of the 37th Division, have not been designated.

Participating in the Fifth training corps maneuvers in June, according to information from Camp Shelby, will be the 37th (Ohio) division; 32nd division, Wisconsin and Michigan troops of Beauregard, La., and the Fourth division of regular army troops stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., — all opposed to the 30th division and the Second Armored division which will train either at Camp Beauregard or at Camp Polk, La.

The July maneuvers will involve the Second and Third armies. The Fourth division from Benning is a triangle division and includes the 29th Infantry regiment which is becoming famous for its demonstrations in its use of modern warfare weapons at the Benning army school.

German Model
The Second Armored division is modeled along the lines of the German Panzer division, which stresses fighting from moving vehicles rather than on foot.

The triangle or stream-lined division, such as the Fourth division from Benning, consists of approximately 13,500 troops instead of 18,500 — the strength of a "square" division such as the 37th and 38th. Infantry and artillery regiments form combat teams in a triangle division.

The Second and Third army maneuvers will involve the greater number of troops.

Third Army
The divisions and regiments scheduled to make up the Third army for the maneuvers will include: 32nd from Beauregard; 37th from Shelby; Second armored division, 26th (Kansas), now stationed at Camp Robinson, Ark.; 45th division (Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona), stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., but moving soon to a north Texas camp; the Fourth division from Benning; and the First Cavalry regiment, of the regular army, now stationed at El Paso, Texas.

The names of the divisions and regiments which will compose the Second army during the maneuvers were not listed on the schedule which General Beightler received.

Training Program
Army officials at Camp Shelby were hopeful that the maneuvers will be held in the DeSoto National Forest with the camp as a base of operations.

In preparing for the two maneuvers, General Beightler said that the present 13-week training program for his division will be halted temporarily until March 10 in order to care for the Ohio selectees who are arriving each day. Beginning March 10, the remainder of the first phase of training will be carried out. Immediately after-

PUPILS ASKED TO TAKE PART IN "EYE" CONTEST

Students in Circleville and Pickaway County schools have been invited to participate in a poster contest sponsored by the American Optometric Association in celebration of "Save Your Vision Week" March 9 to 15.

The contest will be open to Elementary, Jr. High and Senior High classifications, with three cash prizes offered in each division. The posters will be judged nationally and a free scholarship awarded to the national winner. Posters, which will carry out the "Save Your Vision" slogan, must be completed by February 28. They must be sent to the association's office in Columbus, or given to Dr. David Goldschmidt, West Main Street.

MORE THAN 200 RABBITS DISTRIBUTED IN COUNTY

Two-hundred and twenty-eight rabbits from a Clinton, Missouri game farm were received Thursday by the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's club and distributed in ten townships of the county.

An additional 19 dozen will be obtained through the State Department of Conservation for distribution in remaining townships, local conservation officers said.

CROP LOANS AVAILABLE

Crop loans to assist Pickaway County farmers in purchasing fertilizer, feed, and seed may be secured from the Farm Credit Administration through the office of County Agricultural Agent F. K. Blair. Loans up to $400 may be made on 1941 crops at a rate of 4 percent interest and may be paid when the crop is harvested.

wards the second 13-week program, which will include all the 37th division selectees, will be launched. It will end prior to the corps maneuvers.

NATION MUST BE PREPARED FOR ATTACK BY SEA

fancy." A negotiated peace, the secretary of the navy declared, could only be achieved through a military stalemate.

Knox pointed out that Admiral Gen. Raeder, chief of the German navy, recently made a speech in which he promised the German people a fleet "befitting a world power" and overseas naval bases.

"There can be little doubt as to German ambitions for world sea power in the event of victory," the secretary said.

"The defeat of Great Britain would definitely carry with it the destruction of the British fleet or would transfer it to German hands to be used against us when Germany has trained German naval personnel to operate it.

Big Army, Navy Needed

"For my part, I believe that so long as the Hitler system endures, we will be forced to maintain a tremendous navy and a very large army in order to continue any sort of national existence."

Knox told the committee that Germany is only waiting for good weather and may attempt to invade England at any time.

Navy information, Knox said, also reveals that German bombing of British industrial plants has been effective and that her submarines and plane attacks on shipping have brought about a grave situation.

For the first time, Knox predicted the reasons for the prediction of a "crisis in 60 to 90 days" which he and Secretary of War Stimson made before the House Foreign Affairs Committee two weeks ago.

"The last information I have is that the Germans are watching the long range weather forecast and awaiting the period when they might attempt an invasion of England," said Knox. "That is how imminent it is."

Lindbergh Respected

"I respect Col. Lindbergh's knowledge and ability in commercial aviation," Knox said. "However, his experience in military aviation is slight, and I consider that his statements on the employment of military strategy as indicating slight knowledge of the subject."

Lindbergh told a house committee that the United States can prevent invasion by building an air force of 10,000 fighting planes, with 10,000 in reserve. The "Lone Eagle" derided fears that Germany or other nations could effectively attack the United States without nearby bases.

Leaders of a newly formed Democratic bloc in the house conceded that their number is small at this time, but claimed that sentiment was growing to defeat the bill and enact a substitute under which Great Britain might be furnished $2,000,000,000 credit.

"Many Democratic members of the house have talked the situation over and we are preparing to defeat the bill on the ground that it will put us in war and put the cost on the backs of the American taxpayers," said Rep. Coffee (D) Neb.

"We believe that defeat of the bill is the only way to overcome the vast delegation of power contained in the bill. Then, if an outright appropriation is desired to aid England there is ample time to consider it.

Ohioans to Join?
"There are a number of Democrats in our group, some are undecided, and we believe that there is a growing sentiment against the bill. We expect several Ohio Democrats to join in opposition."

House Minority Leader Martin called a conference of Republicans, after blasting the measure as a surrender of powers of congress. The Democratic majority of the House Foreign Affairs Committee submitted a formal report recommending passage of the bill, which is scheduled to be thrust before the house for debate on Monday.

The report declared that in view of world conditions "prompt enactment of H. R. 1776 into law is of the highest importance to the vital interests of our country—and even of our civilization." Hearings and public discussion, the committee said, had led it to believe the U. S. National policy is met "squarely" by the bill. It said this policy is:

"(A) to keep out of war;

"(B) and, for our own national security, to aid Britain and those other nations whose defense is vital to the defense of the United States by supplying them as quickly and efficiently as possible with defense articles in a manner consistent with our democratic procedures."

Martin charged the administration with "muddying the waters" by presenting a bill granting the President vast power instead of merely providing aid for England.

Sympathetic With England

"I'd support a bill to give England credit for $2,000,000,000 to purchase war materials," said Martin. "I am sincerely sympathetic with the desire to aid England, but I don't think it is necessary to surrender powers of congress to the President to do so."

The administration's case for the "lease-lend" bill will be closed by Wendell L. Willkie, recent Republican presidential candidate, when he returns from England and Dr. James B. Conant of Harvard University.

the Albanian front, and that a Greek artillery barrage prevented another Italian attempt to infiltrate behind the Hellenic lines.

Tepeleli In Question

According to the London military authorities, there has been no official confirmation of reports that the Italians have evacuated the important Albanian base of Tepeleli on the Central Front.

But the spokesman said that it was "probable" that Tepeleli has been evacuated, owing to the terrific pounding the Greeks have given it.

In Libya, despite the increasing Italian resistance, it was stated, the British commander, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, now apparently is pushing his advance along the coast towards Apollonia after occupying Derna.

The spokesman said no details have yet been received as to the number of prisoners captured by the British at Derna.

In the northern section of the Angle-Egyptian Sudan, he added, British troops are continuing to bring pressure against the Ethiopian stronghold of Agordat.

On the Kenya Front British troops have pushed close to the Moyale area, where the Italians now are making a stand.

ROME, Jan. 31—Italian evacuation of the Libyan port and base of Derna was announced by the Italian high command today.

The Italian war bulletin also stated that German planes bombed Suez and the Egyptian city of Ismailia.

To Prevent Outflanking

Evacuation of Derna was ordered "to prevent outflanking of our positions," the bulletin said. Afterwards troops were marched to the west and south, where the Fascist forces "repulsed an attack by motorized Australian Troops." At the same time Italian planes bombed British ground detachments.

"In East Africa," the communiqué went on, "we repulsed several enemy attacks on the northern Front, inflicting considerable losses."

Artillery and aerial activity only were mentioned on the Albanian front.

CHARLES RUSH, ASHVILLE, IS DEAD AT AGE OF 82

Funeral services for Charles Rush, 82, who died Wednesday night at his home in Ashville, will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the residence of his son, Clarence, of Ashville. Burial will be in South Bloomfield Cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, Sarah; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Radcliff and Mrs. Helen Huffer; three sons, Walter, Clarence and Clifford; 12 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

TWO CARS IN MISHAP

A 1937 Chevrolet truck driven by Harold Herron, Circleville, Route 3, pulled from the northside curb on East Main Street, Friday, into the path of a passing delivery truck driven by Montford Kirkwood, 473 North Court Street, damaging the right rear fender of Herron's truck. Both vehicles were traveling west. Officer Alva Shasteen investigated the accident.

EDISON REFUSES TO SEND BURNS TO GEORGIA PEN

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 31 — Gov. Charles A. Edison today refused to extradite Robert Elliott Burns, author of "I Am a Fugitive From a Georgia Chain Gang," to the state from which he escaped ten years ago.

The refusal was based on a similar declination by former Gov. A. Harry Moore in 1932. Recently, just before completion of another term by Moore as governor, Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia said he expected that Georgia's requisition would be granted. Moore, however, did not pass on the case a second time and today's decision was by his successor, Governor Edison.

NUISANCE RAIDS MADE ON ISLES

military areas, but the fires were extinguished rapidly by fire watchers who outnumbered the bombs six to one.

Virtually all of the raiders flew alone. Some of them machine-gunned the balloon barges surrounding London, apparently trying to shoot them down although most of them were obscured by clouds.

In one area two high explosive bombs and some incendiaries demolished residential property and caused some casualties. London's third alarm sounded at 12:30 p. m. It was the 461st in the capital since war began.

Despite the apparent indiscriminate nature of the bombings, life in London proceeded as normally as ever. The streets were crowded with pedestrians and traffic, the only thing out of the ordinary being a flurry of excitement and willing help when incendiary bombs started fires.

Tiny sandbags placed at the foot of every lamp-post and in every doorway within the last few days proved invaluable. Everyone pitched in with a will when fire-bombs fell and many were smothered even before they had a chance to ignite.

One well-known London Square was the target of a high-explosive bomb.

BERLIN, Jan. 31—A German bomber yesterday successfully attacked a troop camp near the English southeast coast, hitting and blowing up a munitions dump, the German high command announced today.

A long-distance bomber sank a 4,000-ton British merchant ship about 225 miles west of Ireland, the announcement added.

Other bombers attacked British airdromes at Hildenhall, Wattisham and Honington, destroying numerous planes on the ground and wrecking several hangars, it was claimed.

of the company's plants in the metropolitan area.

On Wednesday, the International Harvester Tractor plant was shut down by a CIO walkout which threw 6,500 employees out of work and halted production at the factory on several million dollars worth of government defense orders. The walkout involved union demands for increased wages and other concessions.

Today, Robert Travis, FEWOC organizer, said the West Pullman and McCormick plants of the company faces a spread of the strike. Employees at the plants will be called to mass meetings tomorrow, he said, and strike votes may be taken. At these plants, the company recognizes independent unions, while in the tractor plant the CIO is recognized as bargaining agent.

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 31 — Hope for early settlement of a strike affecting 3,400 employees at two plants of the Alabama Drydocks and Shipbuilding Company was expressed today as company officials and union leaders prepared to meet in conference.

It was believed national officers of the Marine Workers Union of the CIO would be represented at the meeting.

Orders Held Up

The strike, called as a result of wage demands, has held up more than $1,000,000 worth of construction and repair work, much of it under government order.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 31 — Thirty sailors of the U. S. Navy manned a shipbuilding plant in San Diego today after 150 regular workers refused to pass a picket line.

The bluejackets were called in to supplement technicians in converting three tuna fishing boats into navy minesweepers, and took no part in operating other yard facilities of the Martinolich Boat Co.

Tony Martinolich, manager of the company, declared the strike was called because the workers insisted on a closed shop.

No comment was forthcoming from the union, but Admiral C. A. Blakeley, commandant of the 11th Naval District, declared that the sailors were not strikebreaking but were doing specialized work to rush conversion of the three boats.

CANTON, Jan. 31 — A five-day strike at several of the city's eight scrap iron and metal firms today was ended with the settlement of wage disputes and the organization of the 200 employees involved.

Thomas Oakes, business agent for General Truck Drivers Local No. 92, announced that a minimum hourly wage of 42½ cents was agreed upon by the union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, and company officials.

AKRON, Jan. 31 — Thirty-nine boring mill workers at the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., today were back on the job after voting to end a walk-out over a wage dispute.

The settlement came at a meeting between a delegation of workers involved and a union officers committee headed by L. S. Buckmaster, president of the Firestone local of the United Rubber Workers of America.

eral Employment Bureau, whose office is in the ground floor of the Court House.

It is expected that enrollees may be of any age beyond school age, but it is possible that the State Department may ask that the age group be from 17-25.

Men of any age who may be interested in either of these two courses are requested to report to the superintendent's office in the high school building Monday, February 3, from 4 to 7 p. m. Forms to be filled out will be furnished them at that time.

Committee To Meet

The next meeting of the advisory committee will be held on that same evening from 7:00 until 10:00. It is hoped at that time to complete plans to be submitted to the Circleville Board of Education at its meeting on Tuesday.

TAXES SHOW INCREASE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31—Sales tax collections are continuing to show increases over 1940. State Treasurer Don H. Ebright said today in reporting receipts of $833,395 for the week ended January 18. For the corresponding period last year, collections totaled $722,447.
